

The information I get from XM Satellite Radio regarding local weather and traffic, on demand, at the touch of a couple buttons is both useful and convenient. To get the same information from my local regular broadcast radio I might need to waste time listening to 15-30 minutes of useless dribble while the information I need "comes around" in the rotation. It's not just a matter of convenience but could be a matter of safety. Let XM give me the info I need, when I need it!
